

True Potential TrinityBridge Cautious

30 June 2026

Fund objective

The Fund aims to provide income and moderate growth.

June Update

Global equities edged slightly lower in June amid concerns that US interest rates could remain elevated and weakness across major technology firms. Emerging Market (EM) equities posted declines and underperformed their developed market counterparts, dragged down by China. In developed markets, European shares outperformed, while US technology stocks proved a laggard. In fixed income, both UK Gilts and US Treasuries gained. Elsewhere, gold prices declined sharply as the US dollar strengthened over the month.

The True Potential TrinityBridge Cautious Fund returned 1.45% (net of fees). The Fund's large allocation to equities proved supportive overall, despite US shares underperforming the broader market and growth-style stocks lagging their value-style peers. The Fund's sizeable exposure to semiconductor companies drove performance, with KLA Corporation, Lam Research and Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company providing the most notable contributions over the month. Conversely, the key detractors included technology names Amazon, Broadcom and Microsoft. In fixed income, the Fund's preference for US Treasuries over UK Gilts was advantageous. The preference for longer-dated Treasuries within the segment was also beneficial as longer-term yields edged lower amid easing inflationary concerns due to a sharp decline in oil prices over the period. In alternatives, the Fund's exposure to gold detracted.

| Risk type          | Description                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Performance Risk   | Investment objectives express an intended result but there is no guarantee that such a result will be achieved. Depending on market conditions and the macro-economic environment, certain investment types and styles may perform better than others and investment objectives may become more difficult to achieve.      |
| Counterparty Risk  | There may be cases where the organisation from which we buy a derivative, or an asset, fails to meet its obligations. The Fund's cash deposits are also subject to counterparty risk.                                                                                                                                      |
| Derivative Risk    | The Fund is entitled to use derivatives. Derivatives may not achieve their intended purpose. Their prices may move up or down significantly over relatively short periods of time which may result in losses greater than the amount paid.                                                                                 |
| Operational Risk   | The Fund faces non-market risk, relating to purchasing, holding and servicing the Fund's assets.                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Credit Risk        | Where the Fund invests in bonds, there is a risk the bond issuer may fail to meet its repayments. Changes in interest rates, inflation and the creditworthiness of the bond issuer may also affect the bond's market value. This risk is particularly relevant where the fund invests in bonds with a lower credit rating. |
| Exchange Rate Risk | The Fund may invest in securities not denominated in GBP. The value of your investments may be affected by changes in currency exchange rates.                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Liquidity Risk     | Certain market conditions could make sufficiently liquid assets difficult to sell quickly at a fair price. This could result in an unpredictable fall in the value, and overall liquidity of the Fund.                                                                                                                     |
